

Society for Technical Communication

STC Membership

STC membership contributes to career growth, job knowledge, and professional skills. STC promotes recognition of the value of the profession.

Collective benefits in 2010

STC is ...

- ◆ the face of the profession
- ◆ working with Bureau of Labor Statistics to gain recognition of the profession and achieve higher salaries for technical communicators
- ◆ providing broad opportunities for networking with peers, both virtual and face-to-face

Individual benefits in 2010

STC is providing ...

- ◆ electronic subscriptions to all STC publications including Intercom, Technical Communication, STC's Notebook Blog, News&Notes
 - ◆ free sponsored seminars
 - ◆ substantial member savings for online certificate courses, continuing education, Annual Summit Registration, web seminars, Summit@aClick
 - ◆ peer review of your work through STC-sponsored competitions — national and international
 - ◆ access to the TechComm Body of Knowledge (TCBOK)
 - ◆ corporate product discounts
 - ◆ job-seeking resources (Job Seeker Boot Camp; STC Career Center)
 - ◆ annual salary survey
 - ◆ opportunities to lead and practice leadership skills
- Read more at <http://www.stc.org/membership/>.

What does membership cost – and are there options for making it more affordable?

Annual cost (2010) —Basic Membership costs $215 USD. Each chapter membership you purchase costs $25 USD; each SIG membership costs $10.

For further details see <http://www.stc.org/membership/renew-your-stc-membership.asp>, to learn about payment plans, Gold Membership ($395 USD), and the SIG Value Package ($375 USD) – as well as discounts for students and retirees. Or, call +1 (703) 522-4114 for the STC Membership Department.

